I work in oil, acrylic, watercolor, and pen and ink. My artwork is predominantly two dimensional and usually consists of representational subject matter.

Artist Bio

Christine grew up in Baltimore, Maryland and spent many enjoyable summers down on her Great Grandparents' farm in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia. She has lived in a variety of locations, including Virginia, Florida, California, Hawaii, Georgia, England, and Norway. Her education includes a BA from San Diego University; a BSN from University of Maryland, and a BA and teaching certification from Old Dominion University. Christine considers her finest art education as time spent at the Schuler School of Fine Arts with Hans and Ann Didusch Schuler.

Her work experience is as varied as her travels and education, from many years working in emergency services in Baltimore, followed by working as a visiting nurse for the National Health Service in the North Yorkshire Dales, England, to her work for U.S. State Dept. at the US Embassy, Oslo, Norway. She is married and has one daughter. She and her husband feel very fortunate that after a life time of travels they found and settled down in the Big Sandy Mush area of North Carolina.

Artist Statement

For me, art is not as deep and mysterious as some art critics imply. Painting is a pleasurable process, from moving paint around on a canvas to the surprise of the finished image. I appreciate a multitude of art disciplines, hoping to explore and capture some of them along the way.
